A journalist from Rai News 24 shares her testimony on Facebook about an act of racist violence that took place in the Metro A stop in San Giovanni. A young Roma woman, accompanied by her 4-year-old daughter, attempts to steal a passenger's wallet. The theft is thwarted but the woman is brutally blocked by vigilantes, while her child falls and slams into the car. The alleged victim of the attempted robbery approaches the woman and beats her violently, pulls her by the hair and then pulls her to the point of slamming her against the wall at least four times. The girl cries and the man throws her to the ground. The journalist intervenes before screaming at the man not to hit the girl, then trying to stop him. The vigilantes then manage to remove the woman, and the attacker leaves, but on board the train the journalist finds herself surrounded and receives heavy racist and sexist insults from the other passengers.

Facebook blocks the profile of Susanna Ceccardi, League mayor, for a published post announcing the eviction of a Roma camp and the arrival of bulldozers. Ceccardi, in addition to being mayor, is also among the closest collaborators of the Minister of the Interior and the Tuscan commissioner of the League. "It is incredible - comments Ceccardi - that I am in some way sanctioned, because I restore legality in a degraded area of my municipality. I believe that the problem was represented by the use of the word Roma (...). I concluded the post stating that after thirty years the bulldozers will finally arrive".

A Rai News 24 journalist shares her testimony on Facebook about an act of racist violence that took place at the Casal Bruciato Roman Quarter stop saying NO to the Roma: NEW PROTEST IN ROME AGAINST A HOUSE IN ROME

"We don't want gypsies here, that house must go to an Italian."

Thus the inhabitants of Casal Bruciato, Rome, took to the streets to protest against the assignment of a house to a nomadic family of 5 who had the requisites and was on the list.

Here are the words of the Pope:

"I ask forgiveness - in the name of the Church from the Lord and from you - for when, throughout history, we have discriminated against you, mistreated you or looked at you wrongly, with the eyes of Cain instead of Abel's, and we have not been able to recognize, appreciate and defend yourself in your peculiarity. "(...) When someone is left behind - he explained -, the human family does not walk".

In a crossfire of hatred and intolerance, where years of fighting discrimination have been erased by policies that rekindle prejudices, discrimination and racism, finally a gesture of rapprochement to show that guilt can be admitted to rebuild the dialogue. Don't build walls to separate, but hold out your hand to reconcile.

7th may 2019 Rome, Casal Bruciato "anti-Roma" Uprising in Casal Bruciato for the assignment of a public house to a Roma family

Rome, a suburb of Casal Bruciato, in via Satta, protests against the assignment of a public house to a nucleus of 14 nomads. In the afternoon there were also some scuffles. Dozens of residents of Via Sebastiano Satta have taken to the streets since yesterday, along with militants from Casapound, to protest against the entry of nomads into the house. Insults and threats from members of Casa Pound and residents of the area. Without censorship or a brake on the part of the police, extreme right-wing militants have dictated the line of public housing assignments in the municipal area, organizing unauthorized demonstrations, occupying public land with threats and forceful actions: the presence of the Forces of order only marked the limits between accusers and victims.

"We don't want gypsies here, that house must go to an Italian."

The family has been hit by the wrath of some inhabitants of the neighbourhood and by the protests of CasaPound with threats and insults. This one of the offenses shouted to the mother of the family as she entered the building on Via Satta. A group of inhabitants of the neighbourhood, in addition to members of the extreme right, gathered in front of the home assigned to the family for over 20 years residing in Italy to "make their life impossible". Rosalba Castiglione, Rome Capital Councillor: "Imbeciles who exploit. The children have had panic attacks and fever due to shock. I am ashamed to explain to these families that their rights will be protected in some way". Screams and insults against the mayor of Rome, who arrived in Casal Bruciato to visit the nomad family of a popular apartment "Stupid", "you're not our mayor" and "ashamed". With these shouts and insults, the mayor of Rome, who arrived in Casal Bruciato to visit the nomad family of a popular apartment, was challenged by a group of people present under the council house that sparked the new anti-nomad protest. "Disgusting", a woman screamed at the address of the first town. May 10, the Roma family goes out to meet the Pope and from the balconies sprout the tricolour Pope said he knew their story, having read it in the newspapers. He encouraged them to "resist" and ask the Church for any need. The family told their story, explaining that they are Muslim. Francesco then joked with a girl from the family. The deputy prime minister Luigi Di Maggio also spoke about the events of Casal Bruciato in the evening. "We need to review the rules that make people angry ", explained Paolo Del Debbio at the broadcast 'Straight and Reversed.' We should not take sides but use common sense - he added - We need to review laws at national level: if there is an Italian waiting for a home for 20 years and then there are foreign citizens who in 5 years that are here, leapfrog what has been waiting for 20 years, it is clear that a mess like what is happening "happens in Rome. Solidarity with the Mayor for visiting the Roma Bruciato family: Rome remains an open city Casal Bruciato, the presidents of the municipalities solidarity with Raggi: "Right to protect the rights of all inhabitants" Solidarity of the mini mayor for the attacks following the visit of the Roma family of Casal Bruciato. The Grillini presidents recall that "Rome will continue to be an open city". The Nonna Roma association, after hearing of the CasaPound presidency, launched a mobilization aimed at the entire citizenry in order not to leave the threatened Roma family alone. Already yesterday, some activists went to Via Satta to check and report the situation. "We found terrified children, crouching in a bed, away from the windows - they wrote in a post on Facebook - Children crying, sitting on a bedclothes, a completely empty apartment. At the entrance of the building some people control who comes out and whoever comes in. There is not a policeman, a member of the police force, the emptiness, a family imprisoned and terrified inside a house of the municipality without social workers, traffic wardens, surrounded by troublemakers that prevent them from going out. , as well as the indifference of other condominiums ". It is very bad to witness the umpteenth case of hatred and racism against the Roma, because the paradox is that those who are in distress think that the cause is of those who are worse off. threats and aggression are not allowed. It comforts us, though, that many neighbourhood citizens and volunteer associations have brought moral and material support to the Roma family, protecting their children and bringing furnishings. The work of promoting and spreading the culture of tolerance on the part of our Romni association is bearing fruit.

In the Eastern outskirts of Rome, CasalBruciato, in via Satta, there have been protests and clashes against the distribution of public houses to 14 Roma people. The protest was triggered by some militants of Casapound, an extremist right-wing political group, who were shouting and yelling insults to Roma people: "We don't want gypsies here, those houses must be given to Italian people!". They organized unauthorized demonstrations, occupying public sectors with threats and forceful actions. One of them even threatened one woman entering the house, saying to her: "I'm going to rape you". In general, during those days the inhabitants of the neighbourhood were trying to force Roma people to leave and making them scared of going out of the house. The association "Nonna Roma" launches a mobilisation against Casapound, in order to protect the family.

It was a very tough discrimination case against Roma people, even though many Italian people showed solidarity with the family, giving her help and objects for the new house.

The association UPRE ROMA sues journalist Filippo Facci for instigating racial hatred

In the 11 July 2019 was filed by the lawyer Gilberto Pagani on behalf of the association UPRE ROMA lawsuit against the journalist Filippo Facci for instigating racial hatred and defamation with the aggravating circumstance of instigating racial hatred and use of the advertising medium.

In the 15 April issue of "Quarta Repubblica", Rete4's talk show, a network that likes to deal with Roma in a way that is certainly not benevolent, on the agenda was the theme: "Can Roma be integrated?". The most qualifying intervention was that of the journalist Filippo Facci, who, among other things, stated that "there is no ideological position that prevents everyone from thinking and knowing that the Roma steals, delinquent, does not send children to school, is part of small mafias, there is no Roma culture "... this story of the persecuted peoples is really false, the Roma have not been persecuted "... the children will integrate themselves in jail, in jail so that they will be integrated ", " The Jews have a culture. The Roma culture does not exist ", etc.

Not only were the statements of this journalist offensive, serious and inspired by a profound racial hatred, which amply justify the legal action taken, but we consider no less offensive the modalities of transmissions like this, aimed at fomenting a negative view of a minority object of a long persecution and victim of a constant prejudice and usually conducted without a confrontation worthy of the name and without the participation of those who can represent the Roma community.

Brescia's Roms raid: police investigation closed

Today the investigation on the sixty-one years old man from Brescia, accused of setting on fire two Roms' campers in a Roma camp between Bedizzole e Lonato and of shooting a man who lived there on the last 2nd January, was closed. The farmer set on fire the the two campers, where a three people sinti family slept, and then shot the father, hurting him. The farmer decided to attack them because I thought, with no evidences, that they were the ones who steal from his farm.

The swing in the police investigation is due to the discovery of the bullet and to the neighbors, which referred the police that the man insulted lot of times the Rom accusing them of stealing. Now the man is in Brescia's prison, arrested for murder charge and racial hate, but the Rom decided to leave the camp.

Fossò, ethnic group census in the elementary school form

Veneto, Fossò. In the school form is required the specification of the ethnic group of the student. The parents ask for help to an association and the lawyers asked for the recall of the form, defined unconstitutional. The school defend its form declaring it has the aim of create a policy of school integration. The headmaster Carlo Marzolo said that if the form is not totally legal, the school will correct it as soon as possible, because the aim of it was not to discriminate anyone, although a lot of families read this form in this sense. This form is spread to the families for 10 years and the information has institutional aims.

The director of the USR Veneto, Augusta Celada, commented the episode telling that this form is not compliant with the privacy policy and of course it doesn't respect the educative needs of students, who needs pedagogical tools. She hopes that the headmaster will understand that this was not a great idea (she also hope was only the headmaster idea and that it doesn't come from some other with politician implications). If the headmaster will ask for a valuation, the USR would be glad to help him.

"Census" of the Roma population in Italy

Interior Minister Salvini seems to be obsessed with the ethnical minorities living in Italy. On July the 16th he signed a circular which has as aim to sense the settlement on ethnical base to destroy them. The circular involved only Rom, Sinti and Camminanti, creating a sort of hierarchy between citizens. Moreover the ANPI of Florence underlined that this circular seems only to confirm that the the Minister is not going to face the real problems of Italy. A circular like this, continue the ANPI, is only going to make the conditions of this ethnical minorities worse than they are now.

What this Country need is a policy of inclusion, which create the conditions for the respect of the culture and traditions of Rom, Sinti and Camminanti communities, like the art. 3 of the Italian Constitution says. Also "21 luglio" commented this circular as discriminatory and express its preoccupation for the aim and subject t of this circular. They declared that this circular signed by Matteo Salvini is so similar to the Nomads Emergency of 2008 made by Silvio Berlusconi's government.

(here you can find part of the circular in Italian <https://www.fanpage.it/politica/cosa-dice-la-circolare-di-matteo-salvini-sulla-schedatura-e-sullo-sgombero-dei-campi-rom/>).

The announce of the circular was made by the Minister himself on Facebook: "This morning I wrote to all the prefects to know all people living in the illegal or "legal" Roma Camps of Rom, Sinti and Caminanti, to proceede to close them, to clear them and move away the people to restore legality" (L'annuncio del leader leghista è arrivato via Facebook: «Questa mattina ho scritto a tutti i prefetti per avere un quadro delle presenze nei campi abusivi o teoricamente "regolari" di rom, sinti e camminanti, per procedere, come da programma, a chiusure, sgomberi, allontanamento e ripristino della legalità».

On 17 June League leader and Interior Minister Matteo Salvini announced his intention to hold a special sort of "census" of the Roma population in Italy.

He told TeleLombardia: "I'm having the Ministry prepare a dossier on the Roma question in Italy, because after Maroni, nothing has been done and it's chaos".

Salvini spoke of "a survey of the Roma people in Italy to see who, how, how many", that is, "redoing the census. We'll have a register".

He also added that the Roma people who do not have the right to be in Italy will be "expelled" and deported via an agreement between states.

He concluded saying "unfortunately, we have to keep the Italian Rom at home."

During a conference held in Naples on child abuse, President of the Chamber Roberto Fico also brought up the topic of immigration. He said: "If Orban doesn't want to fulfil quotas he should be fined."

This contradicts Salvini's position, who supports the anti-immigration and nationalist Prime Minister of Hungary, Viktor Orban, and is more in favour of decreasing entry rather than relocating migrants.

At the conference, Fico also deemed it necessary to “re-discuss the Dublin treaty” with France and Germany, side-lining Orban’s extreme position.

The revision of the Dublin Treaty and the agreement on quotas has now become one of the EU states' top priorities.

People attack a Rom family in Albuccione

Last days a group of 100 people attack a Rom family which live in a house of the street where few hours before were stolen some valuable objects from a car.

The car’s owner, seeing his car damaged, accused the ROMs of stealing from his car and attacked the family who live in Aldo Moro square. Firstly the car’s owner pretend that the family gave him back €200 for damaging his car and for the items they stole. But the family, which had no idea of what happened, didn’t pay the man. So the car’s owner and his brother, after threaten the family, attacked the 21 years-old man who live there and his sister. The police blocked them in time, but the two ROMs were wounded with quite serious injuries. The car’s owner (30 years-old) and his brother (38) were arrested for attack the young Rom and for racial hate.

Then a group of Albuccione residents gathered and marched to the adjacent Roma village, allegedly carrying baseball bats and bottles. They assaulted a home near the entrance to the village by throwing stones and bottles, according to witnesses and news reports. Two windows on the home, two gates and two car windows were broken, witnesses said.

The Roma called the police, who showed up and kept the two sides from hurting each other. Some Albuccione residents remained for hours at the entrance to the settlement and hurled insults at the Roma until 2 a.m., according to witnesses. They allegedly shouted such things as “Kill them all!” “Burn them alive!” “Send them all away!”

But during this aggression in the house of this Rom family, a group of 100 people decide to take justice into its own hands and organized a sort of raid in the Roma camp of Albuccione.

with a group of 100 people physically and verbally. Then the group tried to attack other Rom resident in the city, but luckily the police arrived and stopped it. Case of racist actions like this increased from the installation of Minister Salvini, who, with his anti-immigration policy, give a sign of approval to the action of these neo/fascists groups.

Rome, Tor Bella Monaca. A Roma family was assigned an apartment in public housing, but when they tried to move in their new house, their new neighbours treated and physically attack them and the Roma family had to take refuge in the apartment they legally obtained. They were frightened by the treatments they received and the Atar officer, who was with them, had to call the police. When the police arrived all the protester, the ones who treated the Roma family, disappeared. The police took witness statements and then offer the family to bring them home, but the family refused. In fact, because of fear, the family let the Atar officer know they prefer to refuse this apartment.

The Atar president, Andrea Napoletano, said that it's not acceptable, it's a racism act that had to be punished. Now the Atar is working to find a new house for the family.

Capizzaglia, Lamezia. Is still going on the protest in the "ex Barbuto" school. Here children are divided into ethnical school classrooms and a group of mothers, lead by Pamela Bevilacqua, Roma activist for the "La Strada association" for human rights, started to protest against it.

Last 10th October, the school made another discrimination the Roma Mothers could not accept: the Italian children were moved in to a new building, built near the old one, and the Roma ones stayed in this one.

Pamela Bevilacqua told it is a discrimination against Roma people, especially because the school do not let children integrate.

The school, thorough the headmasters Margherita Primavera, justify this choice telling not all the classrooms were ready to be used and that soon all the children will be moved to the new building.

Pamela Bevilacqua has no intention to stop the protest.
